

1 Conclusion

From the tables presented in the results section one can simply compare the different methods applied. It seems for the quadrature methods that a higher number of integration points N - beyond what's discussed in the results ($N > 11$) - does not yield better results. Comparing Legendre with Laguerre there is a significant improvement in precision, not least in stability with increasing N .